Top end inspection secures on going reliability.

Regular checks to expansion settings ensures optimum energy efficiency.

It is more important than ever that you can be confident you are optimising the serviceable life of all your capital equipment including the air conditioning systems. A major Bank and Investment Company based in the city were faced with ageing chillers regularly breaking down and called in Accent Services to investigate.

Investigation.

After an extensive inspection of the site, Accent concluded that while there were some concerns over the quality of the existing maintenance regime, the main issue was that the machinery was rapidly approaching the end of its serviceable life and should simply be decommissioned and replaced. As the funds were not available for this option, Accent carried out a careful examination to establish the most cost effective way of keeping the existing equipment in operation.

The Accent Services Solution.

The Accent report was prepared, carefully isolating out the urgent and critical items and scaling the required work down to the least essential items. Fully itemised quotations were prepared for each item so the customer had a complete project break down with a clear view of all the work, time scale and costs and could therefore plan appropriately.

As each planned visit was carried out particular care was taken to ensure that any previously implemented repair work was functioning properly and that priorities had not changed on outstanding remedial work.

Outcome.

Through meticulous planning and a strict adherence to the agreed project schedule, all the customer's units continue to function without breakdown.
